Additional Information:

Women's Studies Conference March 24-25, 1973 at Webster College and Ethical Society. Saturday workshops at Webster included "gay and rape workshops," described as "frank in their discussions. Personal feelings were shared among friends and strangers, and a feeling of sisterhood was definitely kindled." Also workshop on children's and black literature for "insight into non-racist and non-sexist areas."

Gloria Steinem (white, straight woman) and Margaret Sloan (black, gay woman) both spoke with local women and attended "rap-ins" at forums.
